TO DISPOSSESS GUS TURBILL, Dr. Taliman, Who Mas a Record, Says the Eighth Avenue Motel Is Disorderly,

In the Eighth Judicial District Court yesterday was tried a suit brought by Bradish J. Smith and Edwin P. Smith, as executors of the estate of Edwin Smith, to dispossess Augustus F. Tut-hill, sa tenant of the Eighth Avenue Hotel, at 246 and 248 Eighth avenue, for allowing the hotel to be used for immoral purposes. "Gus" Tuthill, as he is better known, will be remembered as the Wall street broker who converted a few hundred of Police Captain Doherty's dollars into twenty theusand in short order. Dr. Clarence Tallman of 159 West Forty-eighth street, formerly had a dentist's office at 266 West Twenty-third street, which belongs to the Smith He had trouble with his landlords which, it is alleged, prompted him to have. P. Smith indicted for allowing Tuthill to run the notel as an improper resort. Mr. Smith, to pro-tect himself, began the dispessess proceedings. Agents Lemmon, Whitney, and Dennett of the Parkhurst society testified that they had taken women to the hotel. E. P. Smith testified that he had let the hotel to Tuthill on April 1, 1893, for thirty-seven months. When he was indicted he discovered that his tenant, Tuthfill, had been allowing the hotel to acquire a had character. He denied that he had consented to Tuthill's are denied that he said consented to tutally assubletting the hotel to John D. Hillbrandt, Frank Vitsche, John King, and John Allison. Dr. Tallman testified that he could see the back windows of the hotel from his office, and that improper things were done there. "Well, he didn't treat me right," said the witness.

"Do you know Judge Gaynor can have you arrested for saying that?" went on counsel.

"You can't attack me. My character is better than yours, "hotly replied the witness.

Detective John Rall of Brooklyn testified that he had arrested Tallman on a warrant for forgery in 1885.

Justice Stiner seized the gavel with both hands and beat an ear-splitting tattoo on his dear. The court officers started toward Tallman and he subsided.

William H. Tillinghast, who said he was "a theatrical speculator," testified to the good character of the hotel. "I have seen Dr. Wilson in it," he said.

"Who is Dr. Wilson?" inquired the Court.
"Why, the pastor of the Eighteenth Street Methodist Church, who has been leading a moral crusade." Turbill testified that he had.

The defendant, Tuthill, testified that he had sold the leave to John King, but admitted he had never formally transferred it.

After several neighbors had testified to the good character of the hotel, decision was reserved.

CORNELL'S LOST STUDENT.

HE STARTED OUT FOR A WALK ON OCT. 9 AND HAS NOT RETURNED.

Nothing Biscovered to Substantiate the Father's Posttive Statement that the Boy Was Murdered It Is Belleved to Ithnes. that He Became Tired of His Studies and that He Desided to Give Them Up.

ITRACA, Nov. 12.-Such startling statements have been made concerning the sudden disappearance of F. G. Rew, the Cornell student, that it might be well to give the unvarnished facts n the case. Young Rew left his boarding place on Oct. 2, taking his lunch with him, and saying that he was going for a long walk. He has not yet returned. When, after several days, he was still missing, his parents, who live in Buffalo came to libacs. It was at first supposed that he had fallen into one of the many deep ravine and gorges which abound in this neighborhood.

F. G. HEW, THE MISSING STUDENT.

Searching parties went through them all without avail. About a week was spent in this man ner, no clue whatever having been obtained. Mr.and Mrs. Rew returned to Buffalo, leaving the whole matter in charge of Sheriff Seaman and Charles E. Courtney, Mr. Rewoffering a reward of $100 for information concerning his son, After remaining away for a week, Mr. and Mrs. Rew came back to Ithaca. They registered a one of the hotels under an assumed name, and wore old clothing. About a week ago they appeared on the streets as Mr. and Mrs. Row again. They visited all the newspaper offices in the city, and advertised a reward of $200 for information of their son and for the discovery of the body. Mr. Rew confided the fact to about every one he met, and yet enjoined them to se-crecy as to his theory that his son had been murdered. He said he had traced his son from South Danby to within three miles of Ithaca, where he claims that his boy was murdered, and that since then the body had been removed. Mr. and Mrs. Rew are the only ones who made this remarkable discovery. The Sheriff was ignorant of it until told by them, and by diligent search since then has failed to find anything to substantiate the murder theory except that a lad was seen in South Danby or

When Mr. Rew visited the newspaper men he pleaded for secrecy, but the moment he got to Buffalo he came out with the startling interpleaded for secrecy, but the moment he got to Buffalo he came out with the startling interview about the murder, the $1,000 reward offered, and the twp Finkerton detectives. No $1,000 reward has been offered. The only reward is that offered by Mr. Rew, which amounts to $200. There have been no Pinkerton detectives in this vicinity either. There is positively nothing to lead to the murder theory, and no clue has been found to the boy's whereabouts.

The more the matter is investigated the more things get twisted. Every farmer in South Danby suddenly has a wonderful memory about Oct. 2. One farmer came to Ithaca on Saturday with a long story about a boy and a hunter.

The Sheriff, in company with The Sun representative, spent the day in hunting down this atory, to find that the farmer had mistaken the day and the date. Looked at from a serious standpoint, the murder theory seems impossible. The prevailing sentiment in Ithaca stillist hat young Rew became tired of his studies and decided to leave them, and that there was such a hue and cry over his disappearance that he dare not come back. He had $150 with him whas he left. He had not appeared at the university, as is the custom, from the time he reached ithaca until he disappeared, and he asked for no assignment, which seems to be a pretty clear intimation that he did not come to Cornell to remain.

had high heels, curved insteps, and pointed toes. They were hand stitched, and cost $5.25. As for size, Cinderella's prince might well have been attracted by No. 2)½ H. However, the lady was not content with satin unadorned; so she caused two costly diamond buckles to be added thereto, and thus equipped drove to a reception in Forty-ninth street.

When she arrived in the hall she found but one shoe. The other was gons, diamond buckle and all. She was carrying her shoes in her hand, intending to don them in the house, so may have dropped one while descending from her carriage. Now one shoe with a diamond buckle would seem more remarkable than fashionable, so the lady had to send home for another pair, this time unbejewelled. Thus she lost the opportunity of dazzling all by the splendor of her foot gear. If any one comes across a white satin shoe size 2½ B, with a diamond buckle, he will have a chance of earning a reward of $25.

RIGHTS OF PUBLIC HACKMEN. Mayor Gilroy Will Not Give Them Longe

Mayor Gilroy had a discussion vesterday with George J. McDermott, counsel for the Hackmen's Association; J. H. Breslin, proprietor of the Gilsey House, and S. M. Mason and W. H. Seaich, cab owners. He gave a public hearing on the ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen giving all hackmen the privilege of keeping their backs on street corners from 4 P. M. until 6 A. M., instead of from 10 P. M., as at McDermott asked the Mayor to approve the ordinance. All the others opposed it. Mr. Seaich said that he had paid to hotel keepers Seaich said that he had paid to hotel keepers about $14,000 a year for the privilege of keeping his cabs in front of the hotels and on the corners near by, and the ordinance, if signed by the Mayor, would rob him of the rights which he had paid for. Mr. Breslin supported Mr. Sealch.

"I question the right of the Mayor or Board of Aldermen," said Mayor (lifroy, "to give a private association the privilege of monopolizing the street corners during the evening hours. The hotel keepers have a perfect right to let out these privileges as they have been doing. If the ordinance is not withdrawn I will voto it."

Lawyer McDermott finally consented to have the ordinance withdrawn.

There is small likelihood of an extra session. A Democratic President is not prone to call together a Repubican Congress in extraordinary session, except in case of extreme emergency. Whether the or pass a new measure is a matter for future de "The indications at present are that the Republicans will have a majority of one or two in the Senate of the Fifty-fourth Congress. But much will depend whether the sliver Senators, Stewart and Jones, will act with the Republicans or not. With their cooperation the Republicans will be in complete control of the legislative branch of the Government. It remains to be seen, furthermore, whether Nebrasks and other Legislatures of Republican States may not elect Senators pledged to the free coinage of sliver, and whether they will act in harmony with the majority of the Republican Senators on the leading questions of party pollicy.

"I do not think there is any danger of the Republican majority in the House proving at all troublesome or unwieldy. I know there are many who think so. But consider that we shall still have a Democratic President in the White House. It might prove troublesome if the party had the Presidency as well as the House. The the same conditions would govern as at the beginning of the Fifty-third Congress, with its large majority of Democrats in the House and Mr. Cleveland occupying the Executive chair. With the legislative and Executive branches of the Government of different political cast there can be no prospect of factional strife." much will depend whether the silver Senators.

Gibbs says that the return the police have is wrong, crediting Goodwin with 213 votes where it should be 113. In 1893 there were 200 votes in that election district, of which Maynard received 151.

The election of Goodwin will not change the political complexion of the Board of Aldermen, for there would be still sixteen Republican members apparently elected, that is, if Dwyer of the Eighth can be counted on as a Republican. It is true he was elected on the Hepublican ticket, but he is known as Henry W. Jachne's

COL. STRONG IN NO HURRY. PLEASED AT HAVING M'COOK SE-LECTED FOR HIM AS SECRETARY.

Hopes He'll Take the Pince, Afraid He Won't-Going Away Until Thanksgiving Commissioner Daly Won't Resign. Mayor-elect William L. Strong was at his office in the Central National Bank as usue yesterday. Questioned regarding the reports that he had practically disposed of the post of Mayor's secretary to Gen. Anson G. McCook.

Col. Strong said: " It can be said with safety that I have offered no places to any one. I am not bothering with such matters yet, and have done nothing in that direction, I will say this of Gen. McCook I would be greatly pleased if I could secure his services as secretary. I entertain no idea, however, that he would accept the place." It was explained to the Mayor elect that the general understanding of those who expected to see Gen. McCook made Mayor's secretary was that the General would take the post with the idea of helping the new Mayor start his administration, and then accept a better post and one more to his liking later, when the propo Power of Removal bill whall become a law, if it

"That is all very well," said Col. Strong, "but I am of the opinion that Gen. McCook could not afford to do that. His business would be likely to prevent it. I sm giad, though, that the subtect has been broached, for it will make it easier for me to approach Gen. McCook on the mat-

Several candidates for Secretary have been led to believe that Gen. McCook is slated for the place, and have thereby been discouraged in their canvass for the appointment.

Col. Strong said yesterday that he does not believe there is any need for haste in the matter of filling places, and that he will not begin to duties as a public officer until about Dec. I. Meantime, he said, he will endeavor to get his private business in such shape that he can deprivate business in such shape that he can devote himself to the duties of the Mayoralty when he shall assume office on Jan. I.

Concerning the policy of his administration in the matter of appropriations, the treatment of the liquor question, &c., the Colonel would not alk. He said that all those matters would receive due consideration at the proper time, and that he would probably consult with Governor-elect Morton and other prominent gentlemen on matters of policy.

elect Morton and other prominent gentlemen on matters of policy.

Mr. Strong expressed surprise at the small number of applications for place which has reached him. He admitted that a great many gentlemen had hinted informally in his presence that certain gentlemen would acceptably fill certain places which might be at his disposal. He had not considered these hints at all seriously, however, he said.

Mr. Strong will probably go to Boston to-day, and will remain away from the city until Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 29, if his present plans are carried out.

It is pretty generally believed that the Committee of Seventy, which has continued itself in existence to see to it that the reforms sought through Major Strong's election are carried out by his administration, will desire to have a say regarding the naming of the instruments through whom the reforms are to be accomplished.

say regarding the naming of the instruments through whom the reforms are to be accomplished.

"If that is so," remarked a machine Republican resterday, "I don't see where we or ex-Mayor Grace's crowd are to come in. The Seventy would look about for good men for the places and would always wind up their search by finding that the only truly good and absolutely honest men and the only ones capable of filling the places acceptably are to be found in their own little circle. They would probably express regret that the list of capable men was so limited, but that wouldn't be very cemforting to us."

This gentleman had in mind the office-getting propensities of the Committee of Seventy of twenty-three years ago.

This gentleman had in militar to the Compittee of Seventy of twenty-three years ago.

Although some of the present heads of departments may resign when Mayor Strong assumes office, there is at least one of the Commissioners, and he the one who has at his disposal the greatest amount of patronage, who will not step down and out. He is Commissioner of Public Works Daly, who said yesterday that he would get out of the Commissionership only when he had to, Commissioner Daly's term does not expire until May 1, 1896, but his tenure may be abridged by legislation.

MRS. SCOFFIN IS DEAD.

It Is Belleved that She Walked in Her Sleep Out of the Ashland House Window. Jennie Scoffin, who was the wife of Frank S. coffin, a bookmaker, and who either fell or Ashland House early on Sunday morning, died in Bellevue Hospital at 5:20 o'clock yesterday There were no developments yester. day in the case to show that she committed suicide. Mrs. W. H. Drew of 125 Sixth avenue. Brooklyn, with whom she lived, said that Mrs. coffin had been ill for a week. On Friday she Scoffin had been ill for a week. On Friday she requested that a doctor be called in, but later said that she felt better, and sent her eight-year-old son Wille to tell the physician not to come. She said she had studied medicine once herself, and knew berfeetly well how to treat her maiady. Yesterday Willie said that he had bought morphine at times for his mother, and that on Friday he hought some antipyrios and quinine for her. Mrs. Frew said that Mrs. Scoffin appeared to be melantholy on saturday afternoon. She sai in the back parlor apparently in a half stipur. Mrs. Drew advised her to take a walk in the afternoon, which she did.

her to take a walk in the alternoon, where she did.

After a light supper she went over to New York to meet her husband at the Grand Central Depot. Some time after she left a telegram was received from him in which he said he could not come on but had sent some money to her by letter. Disappointed at not meeting him, and in all probability feeling very ill, she determined not to return to Brooklyn, and went to he Asbland House, where she registered under an assumed name. In the boarding house in Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, where they lived, it was supposed that her husband was an expert accountant. He dresses soberly and wears spectacles.

When Mrs. Scoffin was picked up and carried into the hotel she said she had walked out of the window while asisep, and she repeated this to Mrs. Drew when the latter called on her at the hospital later. Mrs. Drew says that Mrs. Scoffin's son Willie warks and talks in his sleep. The body will be removed to her home in Brooklyn to-day. Previous to her residence with Mrs. Drew Mrs. Scoffin lived at the Clarendon Hotel and spent the summer at Sheepshead Bay. endon Hotel and spent the summer at Sneepshead Bay.

Mr. Scoffin went to the Morgue yesterday afternoon and laid a bunch of roses on his dead wife's breast. Later he got a permit to bury the body.

A Veteran Dies in a Poorhouse. Pour Jenus, Nov. 12.-David Patterson, oldier whose bravery was attested by honorable ervice in two wars, died in the Orange county poorhouse last week. He served two years in ties of Falo Alto, Resaca de la Palma, Buena Vista, Monterey, and Chepultepec. At the outset of the civil war he enlisted in Company B, First California Cavalry. He served throughout the rebellion and was honorably discharged in 1865. He came to the vicinity of Goshen, and in 1887 a pension of $8 per month was granted him, but when sickness overtook him this sum was not enough to support him, and he found refuge in the county house, where he died. He was 65 years old.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.-Assistant Secretary Hamlin has been asked what construction is to be placed on the Treasury circular of Aug. 31 as o woollen goods, under paragraph 297 of the new

In reply, Mr. Hamlin says that "woollen goeds held in customs custody on the first day of January, 1895, whether warehoused, unclaimed, on board vessels, or in process of transportation from one port of entry to another port of entry or a port of delivery in the United States, would appear to be entitled to the benefit of the new rates." The classification of merchandise, Mr. Hamlin says, rests, of course, with the Collector, subject to appeal.
